

Busra - About

About this project

The Busra font family supports the Khmer script of Cambodia. It is named after the Bou Sra waterfall in Mondulkiri Province.

Busra is based on a font that was part of a larger package of Khmer script fonts called Mondulkiri; previous names were “Khmer Mondulkiri book” and “Khmer Busra”. The weight of the original Busra was found to be the most generally appropriate for normal text, compared to other fonts in the older package, and serves as the basis for this Busra Regular font. Several significant changes exist between the earlier forms of the font in the Mondulkiri package and this Busra font.

One major change involves the encoding. The Busra font requires that text be encoded according to the latest UTN #61: Khmer Encoding Structure specification. This encoding has been improved to prevent ambiguity and ensure that any given visual form has only one encoding.

Future plans

These fonts are actively maintained and improved, and recent changes to their development process will enable more frequent releases.

The highest priorities for future additions and enhancements are mainly driven by:

- New additions to The Unicode Standard
- Requests from language communities using the fonts
- Needs of the linguistic and academic community

Please send us your requests using the form on the font website. If you are interested in helping us make the fonts better see the Developer page.
